

VISION

A photograph of three young women participating in a shoreline cleanup. They are wearing blue jackets and blue gloves, and are kneeling on a rocky, moss-covered shore. They are surrounded by large green plastic bags filled with trash. The background shows a cloudy sky and some trees.

“We envision a future where everyone knows, respects, and protects their local streams and shorelines, fostering a deep connection between communities and their natural environment.”